

SEA GATE LIMITED

www.seagatelimited.com

Dates

Pistachio

• Jumbo Iranian Pistachio (Kerman)

The pistachio is a tree native to Iran and is one of the most important agricultural products of the country. It has a long history and is known for its high quality and delicious taste. The pistachio is a source of protein and healthy fats, and it is also a good source of antioxidants. The pistachio is a popular snack and is used in many dishes. The pistachio is a symbol of Iran and is a source of pride for the Iranian people.

Pistachio

■ Round Iranian Pistachio(Fandoghi)

Not only are pistachio nuts tasty and fun to eat, they're also super healthy. Known for its bright green hue and unique flavor, the humble pistachio has cemented itself as one of the most loved tree nuts today. It's said that people have been eating pistachio nuts since 6750 B.C., a claim backed up by archaeological evidence. This should come as no surprise, as it's a very versatile ingredient from baked goods to soups and salads, pistachios definitely have a place at your table. Another thing that makes pistachio so inherently desirable is its appearance. Thanks to its semi-opened shell, it looks like a smiling face. In China it's known as "the happy nut," while in Iran, it's fondly called "smiling pistachio."

Size: 25.50 to 32.34

Raisins

■ Persian Green Raisins (Kashmeri)

[illegible]

 Purdue University

 Springer

■ Kashmiri Golden Raisins

Israeli Golden Raisins

This type is similar to green raisins, but is larger to permit a longer shelf life. It is kept in sealed chambers lined with sulfur gas after being washed and then sulfured outside. The result is an amber-colored or dark-amber raisin.

Page 100

Mr. J. Katz

100%

Raisins

Golden Raisins
The taste of nature

[illegible]

Topik: (a) und (b) (c)

 Springer

3

 Springer

2007